

Puppies of Posada Update

The pups are now over a year old and no longer puppies. They have grown into full size dogs. From underfed, starving skeletons they now weight between 30 and 65 pounds and love to take their caregivers for power walks.

Mila at 5 weeks in a 5 gallon bucket

Chica, Buddha and Poncho spent the summer in Posada. Mila (still a lightweight) and Sport spent the season separately in California. Both are back in Posada. Sugar lives permanently in Seattle. Sid (the heaviest) now lives in New York State, but is currently on his way back for a visit. Snoop Dog lives in Canada and is unable to return due to border restrictions.

Sadly, Gabby wandered on to the highway and was killed.

They have all developed their own personalities. Mila loves to swim. She will happily chase a disc thrown into the water, retrieve it and swim to shore.

Sport doesn't like to be on a lead, so Captain John takes him for a ride to an abandoned airstrip and lets him run.

Chica seems content to be alone.

Without Gabby, Budda and Poncho are much quieter without their sister.

Chica

Poncho and Buddha

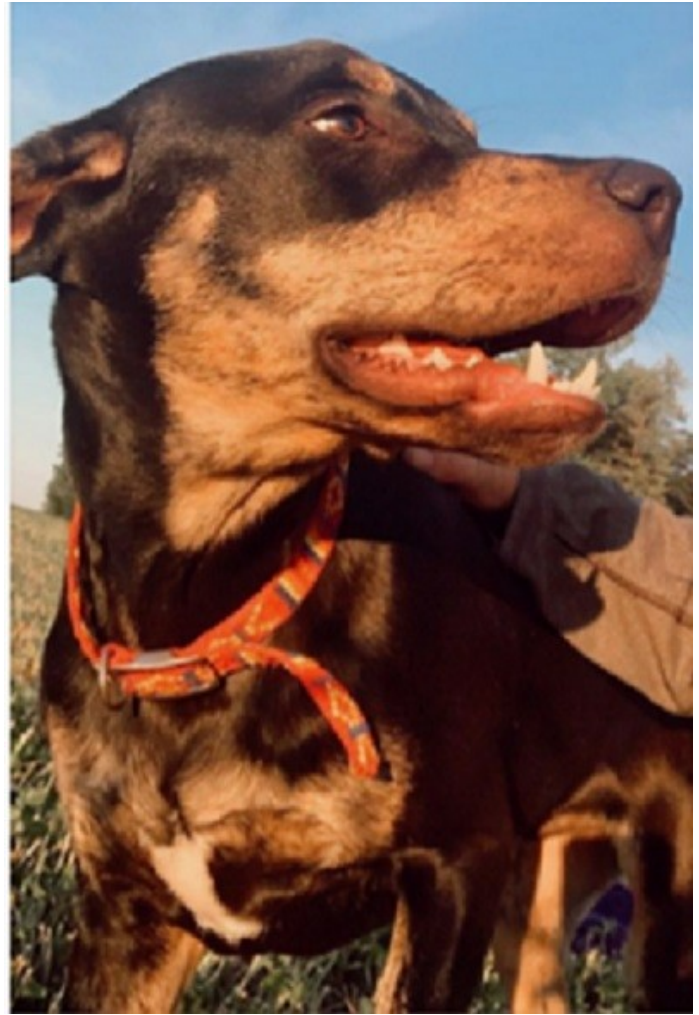

Sugar

Mila (30 pounds)

Sport

Sid (65 pounds)

© Al Strano, Jan. 2021
Previous stories of the Puppies

Puppies Of Posada

Puppies Of Posada Two